

HOME STUDIO 101

When: Sunday February 26, 2023

Where: SoundTrax Recording Studios (302 Jefferson St. Suite 260, Raleigh, NC 27605)

Time: TBA

Cost: $250

What will be covered:

- The basics of the microphone (dynamic, condenser, and new USB mics)
- Basic signal routing in a standard home studio setup
- Which mic is right for you based on your budget, application, and aspirations
- Basics of how to operate a digital audio workstation to record at home
- Software necessary to communicate with clients in a home VO studio
- Information about a range of equipment to get you recording high quality audio at home.

ABOUT THE INSTRUCTORS:

Cameron Fitzpatrick is the Vice President and Chief Engineer at SoundTrax. He's a Summa Cum Laude graduate of the Recording & Production program at Appalachian State University and has been shaping dialogue, narration and sound design for years. Cameron has mixed and edited TV audio for networks such as TLC, DIY and PBS. He's experienced in podcasts, narration, and every type of voiceover imaginable.

Kyle Queenan is an engineer, musician, and voice talent. He graduated summa cum laude from Los Angeles Valley College with a degree in commercial music and a certificate in jazz studies, music technology, and audio production, all while performing the head engineer duties for the entire music department. With a diverse background in audio production and music Kyle brings passion, dedication and attention to detail to every project he works on.

For more information about registering for this class, scan the QR code below or please email classes@soundtraxnc.com

